Three In Jail On Charges Of "Entering"

Three colored boys have been arrested and placed in the Calloway County Jail and charged with "Storehouse Breaking". All three waived examining trial and were placed under bond of $1000 each to await action of the February Grand Jury.

James Lovie Kenley, Douglas Grogan and Eddie White are being held by police on the above charge. They are charged with entering the Murray Home and Auto Store on December 9. At that time several guns, a TV set and some money was taken.

In separate affidavits Kenley said that he went with the other two boys to the rear of the Murray Home and Auto Store. He alleged that Eddie White broke the glass on the door and went into the store and came out a little while later with a portable TV set, and four or five dollars in change. He said that he was standing watch and that Douglas Grogan stood watch at the other end of the alley.

Grogan said that he went into the store himself and was the last out. He said he took $18 to $20 and that they all split up and met on the North Second Street bridge. The money was divided there, he said, each receiving about $7.00.

City and county police cooperated on the arrests and interrogations Saturday morning when four Negroes were brought in for questioning.

Eddie White is a parolee from the state penitentiary.

President To Speak On TV Networks

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Kennedy will give the nation tonight a unique television report on his first two years in the White House.

The President taped an hour-long interview for showing over the major networks to start a busy week of activity before he heads for Palm Beach, Fla., to spend Christmas with his family.

"On his agenda today was a session with the executive committee of the National Security Council and a late afternoon ceremony to light the national Christmas tree. He will speak briefly at the tree-lighting ceremony."

The session with the NSC was scheduled for 10 a.m. EST. The tree lighting ceremony was scheduled for 5:15 p.m. EST.

The presidential interview was being carried by the Columbia Broadcasting System (CBS) and American Broadcasting Co. (ABC).

Tuesday Kennedy will fly to Nassau in the Bahamas for two days of conferences with British Prime Minister Harold Macmillan on Anglo-American relations.

Among the subjects to be taken up at the Kennedy-Macmillan conference is British resentment at U.S. plans to scrap the Skybolt missile on which Britain has depended on its primary nuclear deterrent.

Kennedy plans to fly directly from Nassau to Palm Beach Thursday to join his wife and two children for the holidays.

Mrs. Lottie Jewell Wins Prize Money

CHICAGO — Mrs. Lottie Jewell of Murray, receives a cash award for submitting her favorite article for reprint in the "Reader's Choice" section of the January TOGETHER, Methodist family magazine.

She shares $25 with Mrs. Ethel T. Wood of Ticonderoga, N.Y., who sent in the same suggestion in the same mail.

Mrs. Jewell and Mrs. Wood both submitted "A King of Glory," by Ardis Whitman, in which the author tells of the luminous moments which have come to him, as to all other men, and have changed his life for the better. It is reprinted by permission of the Reader's Digest Association.

Each month TOGETHER pays $25 to the first person to send in the title, author, date, and source of a favorite article or story that is reprinted.

Lakers Will Play Host To Rebels

The Lakers meet the undefeated South Marshall Rebels Tuesday night at the Jeffery Gymnasium; "B" team, 7:00; Varsity, 8:15.

South Marshall is supporting nine victories without a defeat. If Calloway can beat South Marshall, they will have defeated all of the Marshall County schools. Earlier this year, Calloway has beaten both North Marshall and Benton.

This game could very well be one of the most thrilling games played at Calloway this season.

Christmas Collection Taken Up For Pastor

A Christmas collection was taken up yesterday at the St. John Baptist Church for Rev. C. E. Martin, former pastor of the church who now lives in Madisonville, Kentucky. Rev. Martin was pastor of the church for seventeen years.

Although in ill health Rev. Martin still preaches occasionally. The collection amounted to over $50.00.

Charles Laughton Dies At His Home

By JOSEPH FINNIGAN
HOLLYWOOD (UPI) — Award-winning actor Charles Laughton died.

The 63-year-old actor lost his long battle with cancer Saturday night.

Actress Elsa Lanchester, his wife since 1929, was at his bedside when Laughton died in his sleep. The film and stage star's brother, Frank Laughton, said Sunday funeral arrangements were pending because Miss Lanchester, who had kept up a cheerful front during the long illness, was "taking the death quite hard."

Laughton had been fighting the losing battle with cancer for nearly a year. He entered Cedars of Lebanon Hospital July 30 but on Nov. 30 was granted his last wish to die at home.

Laughton was mourned by his friends as a great talent and a great friend.

"Charles was a great grizzly bear and he vainly tried to hide his big, pink plush heart," said actress Agnes Moorehead when she learned of his death.

"I doubt if Mr. Laughton had any foes," actress Joan Crawford said. "He always frightened me and other people in our industry, but only by his great talent."

On stage he was of the best tradition of the English theater in which he was trained — the master of any role.

His performances ranged from the delightful butler in "Ruggles of Red Gap," the exquisite sadism of Captain Bligh in "Mutiny on the Bounty," the gluttonous lust of "The Private Life of Henry VIII," to the beautifully grotesque Quasimodo in "The Hunchback of Notre Dame."

His Henry VIII brought him an Academy Award as the best actor of 1933.

His last film, "Advise and Consent," drew praise for his portrayal of the devious but essentially upright senator from the Deep South, Seah Cooley.

What later became virtually a new career was launched by Laughton in hospitals filled with the wounded of World War II.

He read great books aloud and after the war organized book reading tours — appearing on stage simply sitting on a stool.

Three Calloway County boys have been arrested and turned over to Marshall County authorities on suspicion of beating an old man in Marshall County, according to Deputy Sheriff Taylor Gooch.

Arrested were Eddie Duncan, Donald Scott and Bobby Thorn.

Lon G. Adams Passes Away On Saturday

Mrs. Opal Blakely, who makes her home with the Wilcox family, is returning to Lincoln Park with Rev. and Mrs. Dailey to spend the Christmas holidays.

Mrs. Blakely fell and broke her hip three months ago but has recovered to the extent that she is able to walk and to make the trip by car.

Warmth Hugs Southland

By United Press International

Warm weather hugged the nation's heartlands today after record-breaking temperatures from North Dakota to Texas. But the heat threatened to increase the already severe vegetable and citrus loss in Florida.

With the mercury reaching 59 in Bismarck, N.D., and 80 at Austin, Tex., Sunday, people flocked to the out-of-doors and watched much of the snow that had promised to make Christmas white melt away.

The 59 at Bismarck broke a 33-year record. At Fargo, N.D., the temperature rose to 57, also breaking a mark set in 1939. The mercury at Austin shot up 40 degrees during the day.

Other records were set at North Platte, Neb., 66; Norfolk, Neb., 71; Concordia, Kan., 63. The high of 84 at Sioux City, Iowa, tied the record.

The temperature at Key West, Fla., early today was 67, one of the warmest in the nation. Farmers feared the temperature was rising too fast after last week's frost for salvagers to get the fruit off the trees, and much of the citrus was fermenting on the trees.

Estimates of the crop loss from last week's record cold ran from 50 to 80 per cent, with a dollar setback of $100 million. The Florida Citrus Commission put a 10-day embargo on all fresh citrus shipments to protect the consumer.

Pickers and processors worked around the clock to save as much as possible.

There was widespread damage among the vegetables and flowers, and much of Florida's peachland also was ruined by the freeze.

Myth Of Invincible Alcatraz Disappears

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — The myth of "invincible Alcatraz," tarnished six months ago when three inmates disappeared from the island prison in San Francisco Bay, was shattered a second time Sunday night when two convicts escaped from "The Rock."

Both men were captured in a matter of hours.

John Paul Scott, 35, a bank robber, of Leitchfield, Ky., floated and swam three miles through the churning, rain-swept bay and landed on a rock under the Golden Gate Bridge.

Scott and another bank robber, D. Lee Parker of Canton, Ohio, escaped from "The Rock" around 8:47 p.m. EST, when their absence was discovered.

Parker was captured 28 minutes later as he shivered on a rock outcropping known as "Little Alcatraz," only 100 yards off the main island.

But Scott, using a makeshift set of water wings including an inflated shirt and several pair of surgical gloves, made it to Fort Point, a Civil War fortress directly under the bridge on the San Francisco side.

He was seen there by two unidentified boys who called the military police at the Presidio of San Francisco. A team of MPs and firemen captured the shivering, speechless convict at about 10:30 p.m. EST. A spokesman at Letterman Army Hospital, where he was treated for exposure, said he had been in the water at least an hour and a half.

It was the first instance of a convict actually negotiating the cold, fast-moving bay and reaching shore in the 28 years Alcatraz has been a federal civilian prison.

On June 11, three bank robbers — Frank Morris, John Anglin and his brother Clarence — disappeared off the northeast edge of Alcatraz and have not been seen or heard from since. The FBI and federal prison authorities presume they drowned, but their bodies have not been recovered.

Father Of Howard Koenen Dies Sunday

H. B. Koenen, father of Howard Koenen, died Sunday afternoon in Greenwich, Connecticut.

Howard Koenen is one of the partners of Starks Hardware. He is in Connecticut to attend the funeral services which will be held Wednesday afternoon.

Beautiful Day Ends In Tragedy

BOGOTA, N.J. (UPI) — Marna Adams, 12, and her sister, Colleen, 8, giggled girlishly as they fell at the ice skating rink.

It was a sunny afternoon and the pleasures of childhood made the time pass so quickly. They were reluctant to stop skating, but there was a special movie they wanted to see.

The sisters began hurrying home. Their clothing was damp from too many falls on the ice and they would have to change to dry things before going to Sunday's single showing of "The King and I" at St. Joseph's Church hall.

Instead of using a pedestrian overpass of the New York Central Railroad tracks near their home in a quiet, residential area, the two brown-haired youngsters decided to take a shortcut across the tracks.

As Marna and Colleen hurried along the tracks, an engine rounded a slight curve and bore down on them.

Engineer Arnold C. Holgate, 59, saw the girls. He yanked his whistle cord and hit his brakes but it was too late.

Police said it appeared one of the youngsters was trying to pull the other out of the way when they were hit and killed.

Mrs. Cecil Allman Dies

Mrs. Cecil Allman, age 93, passed away Sunday at 2:10 a.m. in the Meadowview Retirement Home in Mayfield. Her death followed an extended illness.

Survivors are one son, James E. Allman, Fredericksburg, Virginia; two brothers, Ermon D. Jones, Fort Collins, Colorado, and Cornelious Jones, Jackson, Michigan; four grandchildren, G. W. Faughn and Mrs. Alma McIntosh both of Murray, N. W. White, Fredericksburg, and Mrs. Ivan Hudson of Buchanan; four great-grandchildren.

Mrs. Allman was a member of the First Christian Church of Murray. Funeral rites will be conducted at the J. H. Churchill Funeral Chapel Tuesday at 10:30 a.m.

Rev. J. Howard Nichols will officiate. Burial will be in the Mt. Pleasant Cemetery.

Grandsons and grandsons-in-law of the deceased will serve as pallbearers.

Friends may call at the J. H. Churchill Funeral Home.

Retaliation Threatened If Skybolt Program Is Scrapped

Mother-In-Law Turned In Wilcoxson

NEW YORK (UPI) — The mother-in-law of the alleged partner of Bobby Randall Wilcoxson, the one-eyed desperado federal agents called a master bank robber, will get a $10,000 reward, a national magazine The Reader's Digest said Sunday night.

The magazine said information gained from Alfred F. Nussbaum after he was turned in by Mrs. Alice Majchrowicz of Buffalo, N.Y., his wife's mother, led to the arrest of Wilcoxson in Baltimore.

Mrs. Majchrowicz had tipped federal agents that Nussbaum was in Buffalo to see her daughter, Alicia, 25, on Nov. 3. The next morning, following a wild auto chase through the city's streets, Nussbaum was caught.

The magazine announced the reward last July in an article about the bank robbers. The decision to give the money to Mrs. Majchrowicz was based on "information provided by law enforcement authorities," a magazine spokesman said.

Wilcoxson, 33, was captured in Baltimore Nov. 9, where he had been living with his girl friend, Jacqueline Rose, 18.

The magazine said Nussbaum, 28, provided less than that led to Wilcoxson's capture. At the time the FBI denied Nussbaum had assisted in the Baltimore arrest. It refused comment Sunday.

Mrs. Majchrowicz said she did not know how she would use the money. She said it would help support her daughter and 20-month-old grandson.

The issue is expected to be among the chief topics discussed by President Kennedy and Prime Minister Harold Macmillan when they meet in Nassau Wednesday and Thursday.

The official U.S. position on Skybolt is that no decision has yet been reached on the future. U.S. military experts contend the program has been costly and has not yet produced worthwhile results.

Kennedy said at his news conference last Wednesday that the Skybolt missile was "the most sophisticated weapon imaginable" and involved "the kind of engineering that's beyond us." But he acknowledged that the British had a right to take part in any decision that is made about the missile's future.

Nine Orphaned Children Fly South To Join New Family

MINNEAPOLIS, Minn. (UPI) — Nine young brothers and sisters, orphaned by a truck crash which killed their mother and father, flew south today to a new life with a new family.

The nine children of Walter and Regina Baker were on their way to their new foster parents, Mr. and Mrs. Donald Meyers of Charlotte, N.C. The Meyers already have four children of their own. They were among the many families who offered to make a home for the Baker youngsters.

The children's parents, impoverished and faced with losing their drafty, rundown farm/home near Battle Lake, Minn., died when their pickup truck missed a country road curve and crashed last Jan. 12.

A spokesman for the Catholic Welfare Agency at St. Cloud, Minn., said the primary goal was to keep the children together. Offers had come from couples wanting two or three of the children, but they were turned down.

Two of the agency representatives, including a priest, accompanied the brood to Charlotte.

The Orphans are Pauline, 12, Teresa, 11, Timothy, 9, Loretta, 8, Susan, 7, Jeffrey, 6, Gerald, 5, Monica, 2, and Philip 1. Mrs. Baker was expecting her 10th child when the crash occurred.

CHARLOTTE, N.C. (UPI) — "Children need parents. We need children."

With these words Mrs. Donald Meyers, wife of an executive of the Celanese Corp., told of their plans to add a family of nine

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The administration was threatened today with the possibility of congressional retaliation if it scraps the Skybolt missile.

Sen. Stuart Symington, D-Mo., said Sunday that unless arguments for cancelling the Skybolt program were truly convincing "this would affect many other programs that the administration might like to see go through Congress."

Symington obviously did not think the administration could justify killing Skybolt.

He said that if the Skybolt was discarded he could not see a future for the Air Force. He noted that the Russians have developed anti-aircraft missiles that are able to shoot down bombers before they reach their targets.

The Skybolt is an air-to-ground missile. It is fired from a plane, as far as 1,000 miles from target.

The warning by Symington, one of Congress' most influential military specialists, added a second front to the Skybolt controversy.

British officials have reacted sharply to reports that the missile which is being developed jointly by both countries. Britain has counted on the missile to be the backbone of its nuclear strike force.

The issue is expected to be among the chief topics discussed by President Kennedy and Prime Minister Harold Macmillan when they meet in Nassau Wednesday and Thursday.

Quotes From The News

by United Press International
 OXFORD, Miss. — Negro student James Meredith, disclosing how he was treated by police in his hometown of Kosciusko, Miss.

"They cursed me, called me a 'nigger,' ordered me to say 'sir' to them and searched my car . . . It was typical of the way Negroes are treated in Mississippi."

NEW YORK — Former British Prime Minister Anthony Eden, commenting on the Skybolt controversy:

"If I had to choose between putting a man on the moon and continuing the Skybolt project, I would choose Skybolt."

MOSCOW — The Communist party newspaper Pravda, accusing Soviet government employee Oleg V. Penkovsky of espionage:

"He dreamed of the time when he would be in the New York or London night clubs for good. But the ordinary Soviet people who worked alongside Penkovsky helped the security police to expose and catch the brazen traitor red-handed."

HOLLYWOOD — The late Charles Laughton, in a semi-serious description of himself:

"On the screen I generally have been cast, mostly by my choice, as a wicked, blustering or untidy character. Now I am ready to admit that in real life Charles Laughton is all of those things. I often bluster. I find it gets my own way. I am notoriously wicked—especially to bores."

Big Jim Jennings and driving Al Varnas provided the offensive punch for the Thorobreds of Coach Cal Luther who continued to polish a sticky defense.

Emporia grabbed an early advantage and led 6-2 as Murray went five minutes without a field goal. But Murray roared to the front knotting the score 8-all with 11 minutes to go and went on top 11-10 with 8:44 remaining.

The Racers never trailed again although Emporia pulled within two points, 16-17. Murray then romped away to a 27-19 halftime lead and resumed its attack in the second half.

Scott Schlosser started but sat out most of the game nursing an ankle injury. Al Varnas was the big gun for the 'Breds scoring on 11 field goals for 22 points. Varnas garnered his total with driving lay-ups that displayed great timing and some nice long ranging shooting. Jan Jennings poured in 21 points and pulled down 20 rebounds.

Murray as a team hit 32 of 77 shots from the field for 42 per cent while the Hornets managed to connect on only 18 of 65 for 28 per cent. The Racers led 57-47.

A Blessed Christmas...

This Christmas, when again we celebrate the birth of the Prince of Peace, let us allow His spirit of hope and love to enter every heart. Let us pray to Him to keep us steadfast in our faith. Let us beseech Him to give us strength, courage and wisdom so that we might be worthy of Him to whom all praise is due.

What Do Shoes Smell?

Last week we suggested checking on the fit of odoriferous shoes. If that is not the answer there are three other possible remedies.
This writer is not opposed to composition or rubber soles. They do last longer and thus save money for parents of young families at a time when saving money is more necessary than convenient. It has been my experience, however, that some children cause composition soled shoes to smell but not leather soled shoes. Secondly, some mothers have mentioned improvement when they used cotton socks and, finally, unlined shoes may be the answer.
Whatever the solution, the problem is well worth solving because schoolmates are merciless in their comments.

Famous Lady With Enigmatic Smile On Way To America

LE HAVRE, France (UPI) — The bullet-proof truck roared up to the pier with an escort of six motorcycle police officers and six cars jammed with policemen.

A lovely lady with unfashionable hair style and an enigmatic smile was ushered through customs, escorted by 45 members of the Corps Republicain de Securite — France's toughest policemen — with sub-machine guns hanging from their shoulders.

The famous passenger was Lisa di Anton Maria di Noldo Gherardini — better known as the "Mona Lisa."

The world's most celebrated painting by Leonardo da Vinci, officially chronicled in the records of the Louvre Museum in Paris as "La Joconde," sailed aboard the liner Friday for New York.

The Mona Lisa, painted around 1503, is on its way for exhibition with pistols.

The lady was received aboard the 60,000-ton French liner France by Captain Georges Croisile. She was taken to her first-class cabin where six Surete men sealed the door and took up positions in adjoining cabins.

for about two months in the National Gallery in Washington at the personal invitation of Mrs. Jacqueline Kennedy.

The painting sailed without insurance because no group of underwriters anywhere in the world could be expected to put up the estimated $100 million to cover it without charging a premium beyond the reach even of the French government, which owns the masterpiece.

Mona Lisa now is locked in her tailored aluminum container, which has a built-in thermostat and is designed to float in the event of a disaster at sea. Strapped into a framework, she was placed on a bed in a luxurious cabin in the middle of the ship, which is least affected by pitching or rolling of the vessel.

TRANSFER—Pupils of the Lyons-Muir School District leave their bus on one side of that 81-year-old bridge at Lyons, Mich., and walk across, to board another bus. It's a daily transfer. The bridge is closed to school bus and truck traffic.

30-DAY FORECAST

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Weather Bureau predicts more cold weather and snow for much of the nation during the next 30 days.

In an extended forecast issued Friday, it said temperatures through mid-January probably would be colder than normal over the eastern two-thirds of the country. West of the Continental Divide, normal temperatures were forecast.

There is a possibility of a good bit of snow in many areas during the 30-day period; the bureau indicated. These include the Atlantic Seaboard, the Southwest and the Northern Plains. It forecast above normal precipitation for those sections.

Normal precipitation forecast for the Southwest.

A New JOHN CHEASEY Thriller
A ROCKET FOR ROLLISON

CHAPTER 30

"What?" breathed Wedlake. "He's crazy! Rollison was kidnapped!"

"He was kidnapped, and Bennett faked it," Rollison agreed. "I needn't go into details, but Bennett can't do any more damage because he's under arrest."

"He made a full statement, and names a man named Thompson, a Lancelot Thompson, as being the man most interested in getting the information from Holmes and Melling Motors, and Holmes is suspected of crimes in the United States. Do any of you know a Lancelot Thompson?"

"No one answered; Bailey's small and Asen's chunky head were shaken."

"I know a dozen Thompsons, we must have at least that many in the plant. What's he like?" demanded Wedlake.

"About Mr. Morhead's size, he always affects a beard—he has a scar on his neck just behind the left ear," Rollison answered.

"Sure you don't know this particular one?"

"I'm positive."

"He seems to be the man who sold the secrets from Melling Motors, the crime Bennett was blamed for," said Rollison. "I don't want to make things more unpleasant than they are, but are you sure there isn't a leakage from the plant?"

"We take every possible precaution, abnormal security arrangements are laid on—it was always understood that absolute secrecy was essential, and I defy anyone to find a weakness in our plans," Wedlake said.

"As for Holmes—what's this about a crime in New York?"

"The Yard is waiting for more news," Rollison answered glibly.

"Someone found a weakness all right if a car was used in the streets last night," Asen declared sharply. "And someone knew that something big was in the wind, or there wouldn't have been this trouble with Holmes. You left Holmes too long in the States, that was your mistake."

"I really don't see where this is getting us," put in Bailey, and gave a nervous cough. "The one essential thing is to find Holmes quickly, and to find out what has already been passed on to Melling's competitors. Essential. Mr. Rollison, we are very worried men. We have a great deal of money involved in this unpredictable business. We readily understand that our approach to you has hardly been—ah—diplomatic, but we do ask you not to give that too much emphasis. After all, there is a very substantial export drive involved in this. A man who wishes to move his country."

"I see what you mean," said Rollison, solemnly. "Gentlemen, I think you can take it for granted that I will do all I can, and the police will do all they can—but you'll have to make sure that Melling Motors also does everything possible. If there are spies on its payroll, we want to find them."

He looked intently at Wedlake, who gulped, gave the impression that he would like to shout back, but contained his anger.

"Just one little thing," Rollison shifted his gaze so that he could see all of the men, and could judge their expressions. "Does anyone know a Mr. Jeremiah Whittaker?"

Asen looked blank.

Morhead frowned, and shook his head.

Bailey, who must have been of about the same age as the dead man, frowned up at the ceiling, then down at his shoes, and said: "Yes, yes. I once knew Whittaker. So did you, Wedlake."

"So you did," exclaimed Rollison. "How well?"

"Not particularly well," went on Bailey, in his frail voice. "We were among the original shareholders in Melling Motors, many years ago. Dear me, it must be forty years ago. Whittaker was ill-advised enough to sell out, wasn't he, ah, Wedlake?"

"Just after I joined the board," agreed Wedlake. "What's that got to do with it?"

"What indeed?" inquired Bailey, while the other two millionaires sensed that they were not immediately involved in this, and stood silently by.

"He was Holmes' uncle," Rollison answered.

"What's news?" demanded Wedlake, as if he were glad to be able to raise his voice again. "Holmes joined us because of his uncle's position at the time. Any law against that? Whittaker said he was bright, and he was bright."

"When did Whittaker sell out?" inquired Rollison.

Wedlake began: "I don't see what it matters, and—"

"Really, Wedlake, we must not hold back any information," protested Bailey virtuously. "It would be about twelve years ago, I suppose. Yes, let's say twelve years ago."

Midnight watching of the Melling shareholders could solve a mystery and save some lives—if it is done. Continue the story on Monday.

Eagles Go Up Against St. Bonaventure

By United Press International
Morehead State kicks off a big week of basketball for Kentucky college teams tonight, playing host to a St. Bonaventure team that is rated one of the best in the East.

Led by graceful 6-6 forward Miles Aiken, the Bonnies will be smothered by the Eagles, who are now standing as the only unbeaten college team in Kentucky.

Along with Aiken, St. Bonaventure has back Fred Crawford, who was outstanding when the Bonnies lacked Morehead, 106-88 at Olean, N.Y., two years ago but sat out last season as he recovered from tuberculosis.

The Bonnies also have sophomore guard Mike Rooney, who averaged 36.9 points per game as a freshman, to match Morehead's Harold Sargent, who scored 34 per game for the Morehead fledglings last season.

Eastern Has A Toughie
Another Ohio Valley Conference member, Eastern Kentucky, faces a tough test tonight when it plays host to Wittenberg of Ohio, one of the nation's small college powers. The Tigers will be the fourth Ohio team Eastern has met this season, and the Maroons lost to all three of the other ones — Miami, Dayton and Toledo. Wittenberg was upset by Marietta Saturday night.

One game is scheduled in the Kentucky Intercollegiate Athletic Conference tonight, Transylvania playing at Pikeville in a battle for second place behind Ballantine's league leaders. Transy and Pikeville both are 2-1 in league play, while Ballantine has won all three of its KIAC contests.
Georgetown, which doesn't see KIAC action until January, opens play tonight in a tournament at Atlanta.

Panthers Meet Emporia
Kentucky Wesleyan, loser only to Louisville in four starts, will be host tonight to the Emporia (Kan.) State team that took a 97-44 drubbing at Murray Saturday night, while Cumberland College sees first-round action in the Troy, Ala., tournament.

The rest of the week in Kentucky and OVC play:
Tuesday—Louisville at Vanderbilt, San Francisco State at Murray, Georgetown in Atlanta tournament, Cumberland in Troy, Ala. tournament, Tennessee Tech at Jacksonville, Fla.

Wednesday—North Dakota State at Kentucky Wesleyan.
Thursday—Cumberland at Villa Madonna, LeMaye at Kentucky State, Tennessee Tech at Stetson.

Goldwater Not Convinced The Missiles Out

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — Sen. Barry Goldwater, R-Ariz., is not convinced the Soviet Union removed 42 missiles from Cuba last month and has a strong suspicion that President Kennedy has made a secret "deal" with Premier Khrushchev on Cuba.

The conservative spokesman, in an interview with Los Angeles Times political writer Carl Greenberg, said he fears the missiles were not taken out of Cuba "and I know some damned good military men who don't think so either."

Goldwater, a major general in the Air Force Reserve, said he suspects offensive military weapons are being hidden in caves in Cuba.

The senator accused Kennedy of "evasion" by not denying he has made a deal with Khrushchev. "It is obvious he's ducking. I suspect from the way he's been using the press to regulate opinion this is only adding to the apprehension of Americans—that all is not well in Cuba.

Friday—University of Kentucky Invitational (Oregon State vs. West Virginia, Kentucky vs. Saturday—U. of K. Invitational finals; Louisville at Wichita, Villa Madonna at Marian (Ind.), Iowa).

"I don't like this constant evasion of a simple question—'did you or did you not, say to Khrushchev we will not invade Cuba?'"

"He ducks by saying he'll give the answer to the U.N. Security Council when all the 'ifs' are complied with. What are all the 'ifs'?" We hear nothing about removal of the Russian troops," Goldwater was quoted as saying.

Goldwater also voiced concern over Soviet-built Mig jets now stationed in Cuba. He said the jets are capable of carrying warheads that could cripple U.S. Strategic Air Command bases.
